The light penetrates the tissue and is absorbed by the pigmented lesions. The body's natural healing process will remove the injured tissue giving the skin a more luminous, younger looking skin. Most clients feel little or no pain.

Research has found that RF therapy is usually safe and can be effective at treating mild or moderate signs of aging

IPL - IPL releases a broad-light wavelength laser in short and rhythmic intervals. These light waves reach the deepest layers of your skin and eliminate the extra melanin accumulated in it. This therapy also treats the deeper skin layers, simulating trivial dermal injuries to help boost collagen production and enhances the texture and overall health of the skin.
